Notes on papers

calder13expansion

Read the Introduction, the paragraphs about CDNs and serving infrastructures in the Background section, and the Conclusion.

This paper provides a characterization of Google's serving infrastructure, reporting fast expansion. The paper relies heavily on network measurements; students who have taken a computer networks course should have enough background to read the other sections.

report-state-of-the-cloud

No need to read through, but contains some information and trends on how enterprises employ cloud computing.